Parliament has been dealing with the all-important subject of railway rates, which affects in a very serious manner the agricultural industry in all parts of Canada. To the west, this matter is of special importance, inasmuch as Parliament has been asked to pass upon the question of continuing the suspension of the Crows Nest Pass agreement, through which suspension the last three years have been made possible.

As is well known, the Crows Nest Pass agreement was concluded between the C.P.R. and the Dominion Government in 1897, and in return for cash subsidies amounting to $4,000,000, the government agreed to grant certain reductions in the freight rates on grain and flour, making advances from points on the prairies to the head of the Lakes, and to grant certain reductions ranging from 10 to 25 per cent on a number of commodities shipped westward from points east of Port Arthur.

During the war, when it was found necessary to increase rates the existence of this agreement restrained the Railway Commission from raising them beyond a given point, and it was only through the action of the Government in suspending the Crows Nest Pass agreement under the powers conferred upon it by the War Measures Act that the very high rate increases of 1920 were made possible. But unless the agreement is further suspended after July 7th, when it naturally terminates, the rates will return to their pre-war basis, that is on a very large number of commodities.

The Government through negotiations with the railways endeavoured to effect a compromise on the basis of important reduction in the rates on basic commodities, but to this the railways would not agree until the question as to what would be done with the Crows Nest Pass agreement was settled. They contend that its serious reduction in their earnings.

The Government then asked the House to appoint a committee to enquire into the whole question of rates and to report to the House. When the subject came up, Mr. McInnis side-stepped the real question at issue, the further suspension of the Crows Nest Pass agreement, refusing to give Mr. Cross a straight answer as to whether he favored its extension or not. He advocated taking the advice of the Railway Commission.

Mr. Crear made a ringing decision on this subject, coming out boldly against the further suspension of the Crows Nest Pass agreement. In this respect his attitude was in marked contrast to that of the Conservative leader. There was no side-stepping or dodging of the issue. He also showed conclusively that there could be no real prosperity as long as railway rates remain as high as they are now. The whole Dominion was

Local Notes Of Interest

Mrs. Merle Mathison who was severely burnt by the bursting of a can of gasoline is reported as improving.

Mr. Richard Newstead returned on Sunday after spending a few months in Ontario.

Mr. Harold Foxwell left Chauvin on Monday en route for Rosetown, where he has secured a position.

Miss Roberts returned to Chauvin last week after a visit to friends in Edgerton.

Mr. Geo. Reynolds who was under the weather for a few days is now recovered.

J. A. Suffren, Forest Officer of the Manitou Forest Reserve is in St. Paul's Hospital, Saskatoon, where he will undergo an operation on the nose. We hope he will soon recover.

The Prize Lists of the Chauvin Agricultural are in the hands of the printer, and we expect that they will be ready for distribution by the end of next week.

About one hundred trees from Mr. Cargille nurseries have been planted by citizens of Chauvin in their gardens during the past week.

Mr. R. H. Greenwood, of Paradise Valley, was one of Chauvin's business visitors Monday afternoon.

A walk around Chauvin reveals that considerable care has been given to the gardens and house lots. Much work has been done this spring, and the town is entitled to take pride in its work—and continue same.

Mr. Murray, the genial hardware merchant, we had almost said inform us that he spent the sabbath in the city of Butte.

Sparks from the chimney of the W. Petrie house ignited the woodpile standing against the wall. Fortunately it was observed in time, and after a somewhat strenuous struggle all danger was averted.

The Imperial Oil co have instructed their Chauvin agent to give a credit of $7.50 for each steel barrel returned to the Chauvin depot. This amount is given as a credit on the next purchase. Those having spare barrels would be well advised to avail themselves of this offer while it is still good.

The Westminster Ladies Auxiliary held an enthusiastic meeting last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs Dr H. G. Folkins. It was decided to give a Baked Bean Supper with Brown bread, pie etc., tea and coffee on Saturday May 27th. The proceeds to be devoted to the funds of the Westminster church. Further details to be announced later.

Mrs. M. Mathison Is Very Severely Burned

Mrs. Merle Mathison was the victim of what might easily have proved a fatal mishap. A can of gasoline standing near the kitchen stove in some manner, not known, became ignited. Mrs. Mathison promptly carried the burning can outside, and in so doing received serious burns from her waist down to her left shoulder. But for her prompt action the house would have been a total loss.

After receiving attention Mrs. Mathison was taken to the home of her mother, Mrs. Pierce, who is nursing her.

Professor Smith on Plowing Matches

Even the most ardent plowmen in the contention might have been forgiven for thinking that taking part in a plowing match was airtight, but to sit and listen to a Professor talking about it wasn't the same thing at all. As for the rest of us we quite openly decided that we'd have to grin and bear its dulness. But secretly the youthful professor got away to a good start than we sat up and took notice, for if he wasn't making his 'cut and dried' subject as exciting as a witnessing the real thing, and before he got through even the ladies were plowing match fans.

Perhaps the secret of it all was that he himself is an enthusiast for good plowing and enthusiasm is catching. For he has himself held the handles and ridden the plow to victory on many a keenly contested field, and the thrill of the contest could be felt right through his address. The professor in his was entirely swamped by the real world knowledge of the personality behind it, that of a man who has done well, whatever his hand found to do, and enjoyed the doing of it.

As is public knowledge bedding down the horses for the night or drawing a straight furrow the man that won out was the man who put his best work into the task. Incidentally we found that the first man he worked for when he came to Alberta was our well-known exhibitor in the Edgerton district, Mr. Dunlop, of whom he still speaks with a warm regard.

He began his address with the quotation that 'Civilization begins and ends with the plow,' then went on to talk of plows and plowmen past and present whose skill at holding the handles had made a plowing match more exciting than a baseball, or rugby, game, and had elevated the profession of plowing to a fine art. The men who had taken so much pride in driving a straight furrow, making a scientific break, and turning a good looking end rig that weariness was unknown to them. He spoke of the plowing match scenes in Hal Caines' novel, 'The Deemster,' and S. R. Crockett's 'Strong Mac' with extracts from the latter.

He visualized the scene.—The three judges walking importantly around in the soft droops misty prints in their port, —a flush on their cheeks. The half of which was pride of place. The other half was weariness!

The competition ground known as the Bent's Ridge when the Holm burn joined the Lowran Water—the massive work horses with shining harness and silver buckles, with gay ribbons on forehead, mane, and elegant plaited tail, the keen cutting plow share set to a nicely, and the whole guided by the keen-eyed plowmen—ready—resourceful—dashing and cautious, all at once,—those pilots of the dry land, those dauntless navigators of the red streaming furrow! It was the single handed open competition for the Silver Cup, presented by the Laird o' Lowran, and big Sandy McEwan was in a fair way to carry off the cup frae Lowran that it had held for 3 years. Besides the fact that big Sandy was no favorite with the Lowran lads, there was the added

Airlie Defeats Chauvin

A friendly game of baseball was played on the Chauvin grounds Saturday evening between scratch teams representing Airlie and Chauvin. It was apparent that both teams need some real good hard practise, there being material worth the effort. The game finished in favor of the visitors from Airlie.

Crop Notes

The rain fall during the past week has been heavy and accompanied by a few snow flurries. The weather has been on the cool side with two light frosts at night. Growth is reported to have been slow during this period, and at time of writing much of the wheat is standing at 8 inches high—possibly it would be safer to state that the wheat generally averages four inches. Ample moisture for three weeks is now in the ground. Horses and cattle are doing well with pasture growing rapidly.

drawback that he was a Kirkanders man, and would craw' as Jock Fairlie put it! At the days o' his life if he won the cup o' Lowran."

The story tells how Strong Mac, a Lowran school laddie—played truant for the afternoon and arrived in time to save the honor o' Lowran district, by winning the cup from the over-confident Big Sandy. Then having done so Strong Mac goes back to the little school to get the punishment reserved for all such as play truant, the carrying out of which is an interesting story in itself, but unfortunately we can't find any excuse for weaving it into this report. Come along down to statements the professor said that as far back as 1801 there were records of premiums being given to plowmen in Scotland and records of matches still further back. But enthusiasm for these matches was not confined to the Old Land, for last year at Woodstock town in Old Ontario a crowd of 55000 people had witnessed one of the most exciting plowing matches that had ever been staged in Canada, while last year the plowing match in Portage La Prairie was the best they had had in 21 years...

He had been present at matches in the U.S. which were just as enthusiastic and keenly contested as any farming...

Especially is it good in the case of those just starting out to learn farming. Straight plowing becomes a habit with them and the necessity of making a good break and leaving a neat end furrow makes for a system of farming at once more scientific and more profitable. It teaches the boy how to drive horses to get the most out of them with the least wear and tear on horse and man and plow. In regard to the last, a beginner will learn more of the benefits of a properly adjusted plow than he will in a month of plowing any old way. In short to put it professional, it inoculates the young competitor with the germ of good craftsmanship, from which comes pride and interest in our work.

Societies contemplating having a question in the winter so that there would be lots of time to perfect their plans.

He gave a few suggestions to make the match a success. One of these in Scotland was home of the plowing match idea. The expressions of approval or disapproval used by the fans meant the same thing, the only difference lay in—whether their way of saying it, and of course unless as a novelty the prize furrow was not drawn by an expert behind the handles, as by one on the plowset.

But while the plowing match is an enjoyable affair, for the thrills and excitement it gives to plowmen and spectators alike, yet the big idea back of it is to inspire an interest in better plowing, in the interest of better crops, and up to date methods of what was live committee and a good community spirit. (2) A good field, well staked out, so that when the match was over the field would not look striped and cause the kind farmer who had offered his field to croak like E. A. Poe's raven "never more." (3) Each competitor do a reasonable amount of plowing, such as—walking plow $\frac{1}{2}$ acre, sulky plow 1 acre, gang plow $\frac{1}{2}$ acres. (4) The prize list should be attractive. If a silver cup was offered it should have to be won three times before being finally won. Silver medals suitably inscribed and prize ribbons for the championships. Old experienced plowmen should not compete against amateurs. There should be a class for both. (5) A carefully prepared list of rules which should be explained to each competitor. (6) Uniformity in judging, that is to say so many points for straight plowing, so many for finish, turning, etc.

The professor here produced a diagram of a field staked out for plowing and showing just how much each man would have to do to cover the ground between himself and the next competitor to avoid the zebra effect. He stated that the Department of Agriculture would give a grant to plowing matches on the same basis as fair up to the sum of $300.00.

This statement was received with much enthusiasm by the delegates, which kept demanding more of the blithe young professor, Mr. H. A. Craig deputy minister, promised to have the address put out in bulletin form, so that they could satisfy themselves on every point under his discussion and enjoy its fine points all over again.

Letters To The Editor

The Wheat Board

Chauvin, May, 9th 1922,
Editor Chauvin Chronicle,
Dear Sirs—

I regret that Mr. Max Campbell would take a wrong meaning of my motive in regard to the Canada Wheat Board, and accuse me of trying to damage Mr. Crerar's reputation. This accusation is founded purely on imagination.

In regard to the wheat board and wheat pool schemes, I make no secret of the fact that I objected to signing a five year contract when the farmers wheat pool was under discussion in 1920 and stated freely that it had to be a voluntary pool or nothing. I still hold that opinion. I didn't join the crowd and shout for the re-instatement of the old compulsory Wheat Board.

When you talk of voluntary co-operative schemes, I have no objection, in fact I would like to see it come to pass. A voluntary pool gives the individual the right to join the pool or not.

It gives him the right to sell a portion of his grain or all of it, in the fall, if he badly needs the money, and it gives him the right to entrust all his grain, or a portion of it to a board composed of honest capable men, whose duty would be to give the consigner a cash advance on the grain consigned, then sell it, to the best advantage and give everyone consigning grain an equal or pooled price at the end of the season. This arrangement is not a radical departure from the present marketing system, in fact it is near enough I believe to get the co-operation of the banks, who by the way figure in strongly on wheat marketing.

Read this opinion:

The opinion, which is drafted by E. L. Newcombe, K.C., the deputy minister of justice, and is endorsed both by the minister of justice and the solicitor-general, is that the establishment of a Wheat Board with compulsory powers, while it was not challenged as a war measure, is outside the authority of the federal parliament, inasmuch as it transgresses the powers of the provinces, touching contracts and matters of local or private interest within provinces.

The opinion adds that there is no doubt about the federal parliament's authority to set up a board capable of voluntarily desire to entrust to its hands the marketing and distribution of their wheat, but that as the old board had compulsory powers to take wheat, to fix prices, and to prevent private trading without its consent, similar powers could not now be conferred upon a board to be created by parliament.

Mothers Day Service Presentation At Rib- Stone Union Church

A special service was held at Ribstone Union Church on Sunday May 11th in commemoration of Mothers' Day. The service throughout was inspiring and uplifting. Misses Dominy and Price, and Mr. Dell sang "Answer Mother's Prayer" with great expression. "Tell Mother I'll be There" was elegantly rendered by the choir, the congregation joining in the chorus. Mrs. Pound presided at the organ Miss Price and Mr. Pettit also assisted with the music.

Thanks are due to the Ladies Aid for the beautiful and artistic way in which the decorations had been arranged. Each person, as they entered the church had a bow of pink or white ribbon given them in the place of flowers which are so expensive.

After the service Mrs. Crittenden, accompanied by the members of the Ladies Aid waited upon their minister Mr. Mitchellson. Mrs. Crittenden in the name of the Ladies presented him with a handsome enlarged picture, size 10x17, of the members of the Society. In making the presentation she said in effect:

In presenting you with this picture we wish to express how much we appreciate your work and services among us, and the great pleasure and help it gives us to work along with you, for with God's help you are doing a great work.

Mr. Mitchellson in replying said: This is one of the many gifts with which you have honored me with during the past two years, and I feel unworthy of all the esteemed kindness which you have shown to me. I feel grateful to God for such a grand company of women who are willing to work and co-operate with God and his servant for the advancement of his cause in this the great North West. The work is growing and advancing, and so long as we keep Christ in front of us it will continue to do so. Soon we hope to have a home we can call our own. The house of God, where His honor dwelleth.

In my study these faces shall always produce an inspiring influence and trust and a noble confidence in God.

Teachers Permits Are No Longer Renewable

Permit teachers will soon be a thing of the past, declares Hon. Perrin Baker, minister of education. Though there are about 200 permits now in existence, these have been granted only until the middle of April. About 500 new teachers will be available from the Normal Schools this season.

Grasshopper Notes

Farmers and municipalities are entering vigorously into the campaign to combat the grasshoppers and organizations have been effected in many districts. Large supplies of poison bait mixtures are being shipped out by the agricultural department, and there is every prospect of a determined effort to deal with the grasshoppers when they do appear.

Why Bacon Standards Set The Hog Grades

Canadian Trade Depends on "Wiltshire Sides" for Export

It is not farmers nor promoters of breeds who set the standard for bacon hogs. The last and final judges of bacon are the consumers—the unscientific millions of them. Therefore the last and final judges of what constitutes a bacon hog are the men who have to prepare the bacon for the consumers. Talk about well defined bacon types is not mere theorizing; it is the hard outcome of a long train of business events in which the farmer producer is only one factor.

which class a side of bacon may go. An understanding of the points will be helped by reference to the second diagram giving a Wiltshire side marked to show the approximate retail prices paid in Great Britain for the different cuts of Canadian bacon. The portions within the heavy line, It will be seen, yield the highest prices.

Now refer again to the good side in the first illustration and see the importance of having a even-backed hog, in which the fat is regularly distributed from one extremity to the other. Note the prices for this portion as given in the diagram. Observe that the shoulder and neck portion are not heavy. This will explain why the Government Hog Conference at Ottawa last November decided, taking the experience of the meat trade over many type, the defects would have been of a different character, but still more marked. The meat manufacturers' demand for a hog to suit the requirements of the best market is sound business, based upon conditions that must be met if, nationally, Canada is to "come back" in profitable hog production.

Bacon Cuts And Prices

This outline or an export "Wiltshire side" of bacon gives in simple form the plain arithmetic of hog buying. It shows the parts of the carcass from which the English bacon cutter gets various cuts of meat for re-sale. It will be seen that the highest priced cuts lie within the section heavily lined. The figures given are approximate retail prices in cents per pound for Canadian bacon on the British market today; they must not be taken as exact, but they show the proportionate value of the different

Good and Poor Wiltshire Sides Compared

A GOOD SIDE A POOR SIDE

Sectional cuts from the above sides

We will trace back the bacon from a Canadian hog so as to understand the why and the wherefore of the campaign to raise the national industry to a level of the best paying markets.

Canadian bacon is exported in the form of Wiltshire sides, of which two are illustrated in the accompanying picture. This is a trade term for practically one-half of the carcass. If a Wiltshire side is not of the proper weight, the right shape, with the desired ratio of fat and lean that the British buyer wants, it cannot bring the highest price. And there is almost as much difference in Wiltshire sides as there is in wool.

The accompanying illustrations will make the requirements for Wiltshire quite plain. The good, side (on the left) will especially repay close study. It shows, as it were, opened out and laid bare for inspection, the several points which ultimately decide into years, that for a select hog the jowl and shoulders should be light and smooth and the back from neck to tail evenly fleshed. Notice that in the poor Wiltshire side (on the right) the neck and shoulder (across from) A to B are far heavier and that there is a coarseness about the ribs which goes to make the side less desirable. Turn once again to the diagram and note the prices for the belly cuts, a brief comparison of these will make it obvious why the conference decided that the side of a premium hog must be long, of medium depth and dropping straight from the back. The reader in comparing the two sides illustrated an attractive neatness and evenness of conformation about the one that is quite lacking in the other.

Both illustrations are from recent bacon-type hogs. Had the poor side been cut from a non bacon breed the Durro Jersey, Poland China, Chester White, or other thick, stumpy parts. For instance the lowest priced cut is that lying between the flank and the lower part or the ham. It retails from 15 to 20 cents per pound. The back bacon and the ham however range in price from 34 to 40 cents up to 36 to 40 cents. These choicer parts of the hog are naturally those to which the packers' buyer first looks when he enters a pen. It is the right balance and conformation of these parts within the right weights—and of course with right quality and finish—which go to make a "select" bacon hog.

Arrangements are now being made by the department of agriculture for the carrying out of the provisions of the new act requiring the licensing of produce merchants of the new act. A BUNCH OF THIEVES

It's really surprising what a number of thieves there are in this district. It does seem that every other person in our midst is a thief. We mean to say that many a person who would never in a life time rob any one of his neighbours of any thing of material worth, will seldom hesitate to rob their neighbour of their moral worth, or reputation.

"OLD BILL" AND JUST "JANE"

It is most surprisingly easy to speak belittlingly of one's neighbour. We think of them as "Old Bill," and just "Jane," and after a while they become a little less than ordinary folk to us.

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

DAMNED FOR EVER

As if this was not enough we talk of their little faults, even if the same are ten years old.

Should they ever make any radical errors, or commit some crime, we damn them for life, by a complete memory of the same duly supplemented by a conglomeration of gossip added thereto.

AND ON THE OTHER HAND

On the other hand we glorify those who for any purpose come into our midst from the outside. We listen to their words, we praise their manners, and generally give them a liberal share of our thanks and applause.

Sometimes we are tempted to believe that the only way for the ordinary member of our community to get honor is to go elsewhere—and not stop too long.

UP OR DOWN?

Why continue to hold each other down in a social and moral sense. We are, it is true, just ordinary people, with ordinary faults and ordinary virtues; and by virtue of this we are about as good as those in other districts.

We would be a whole lot happier if we saw the best in each other, talked about and remembered it—and maybe we would be a still better bunch.

BUYING FIGS

Jones hurrying home from business, remembred his promise to bring back some figs.

He turned into the nearest fruit-shop, and was confronted by a very pretty girl.

"What can I get you, sir?" she asked.

Jones, always of a nervous disposition, especially so when in the presence of the fair sex, hastily voiced his order.

"Half a pound of pigs' fleas!"

And to this day he can never make out why the young lady blushed and retired so hurriedly.

TRUTH WILL OUT

Two newly married couples lived next door to each other, and strange to say, both men were named "John," and both ladies named "Alice."

One husband died soon after his marriage, and the other had to go to India on business.

Shortly afterwards a cablegram came, and was delivered by mistake to the widow, who, on opening it, read: "Just arrived; heat terrible!"

Work To Continue

"Miss Jessie McMillan, wife of Aberdeene, holds of several certificates as health worker and lecturer, is to be the new director of extension work among women's societies of the province. Announcement of her appointment has been made by Hon. George Hoadley, Minister of agriculture.

Miss McMillan is to fill the new post created under the recent amendments to the Women's Institutes act, whereby extension work previously carried on by the Women's Institutes branch will be enlarged to include other women's organizations, and whereby there will be a director for the entire work. She will assume her duties at once.

Already a large array of work is offered her, for since the new amendments to the act, applications for extension work have been pouring in and the staff is now engaged in arranging the itinerary for the summer and fall.

and in diets. She holds also certificates from the Central Midwives board, and from the Royal Sanitary Institute of Edinburgh, a first class diploma as a popular health lecturer, and a similar diploma on sick nursing. For several months she was hospital nurse at Stirling Infirmary, Scotland where she took special training work among women and children. In 1906 she became senior visitor for the health board of Aberdeen, Scotland, where she organized the visiting work among mothers and newly born infants. For some time after she was lecturer for the medical and sanitary society of Edinburgh. Miss McMillan is also author of a manual for use of health visitors, with a foreword written by Sir William Osler, who paid tribute to Miss McMillan's qualifications.

Credentials which Miss McMillan brings, includes several from the national council of the Y.W.C.A., with which she was engaged for some time as secretary of the ocean travelling staff, and also from Dr. Matthew Hay, medical officer of health and professor of forensic medicine in Aberdeen, Scotland. Other credentials come from the medical board of Oxford, England, with which Miss McMillan was engaged for some time. The new appointee is a newcomer to this province and has been residing in Edmonton for the past few months. Hon. Geo. Headley, in announcing the appointment, declared that he believed the government had obtained a woman eminently qualified to fulfil a responsible position.

The work of the women's institutes will be continued as in the past, declares Hon. Mr. Headley, save with respect to the cost of the annual convention. In addition to this, however, the extension work of the department is to be enlarged and extended to other women's societies so that many touch with the educational propaganda in home economics and many other features touched by the department. Miss Evelyn Murphy is still in charge of the library of the institutes.

Gardening Hints At

Ribstone W.I. Mtg

By Ribstone Women's Institute

The regular meeting of the Ribstone W.I. was held in the Hall Saturday May 6th. Eleven members being present.

Meting called to order by the President at 2:30. O Canada was sung and creed recited. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.

Correspondence read and commented upon; all bills to be paid.

Reports were given by some of the members who had tried some of the Housecleaning hints given at our last meeting. The president then announced the subject for the afternoon "Gardening". Members to answer to their names with some useful hint on gardening.

Mrs. R. Morrison—For early cucumbers make hills of well-rotted manure, then place a crock in centre of hill, bank soil firmly around it, lift out crook and plant seed in hole left, this can be done real early, keep well watered, and cover top of hole nights until danger of frost is over. The soil may then be raked down to allow the cucumbers a chance to run.

Mrs. J. Russell—For best results plant seeds on level ground in preference to drills, as it does not dry out as quickly, and have your garden plowed in fall.

Mrs. Etson—Draw a chain along the line to make your rows, drop in seed, cover with hoe, and pack firmly.

Mrs. Heasman—After making the mark to drop your seed in, water soil well, drop your seed in on the wet drill, cover and pack well.

Mrs. McCrea—When your tomatoes are well formed strip all the leaves off your vines, and the strength will go to the fruit and the tomatoes will ripen early.

Mrs. Clifford—When raising tomatoes plant the seed in very rich soil.

Mrs. Hurst—Before planting cabbage, onions, etc., sift wood ashes along the drills, to do away with the cut-worm.

Mrs. Blair—Try taking a can with a few holes punched in the bottom, put seed in and shake along the drill, you will get your seed in more evenly also for flowers put castor oil around plants and get rid of the white fly.

Mrs. Pound—Do continual hoeing, if possible the first thing in the morning.

Mrs. McLaughlin—Plant tomatoes, cucumbers, beans, all tender vegetables together as they can be covered more easily frosty nights, for early growth rich and keep well watered.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Elson and Mrs. Russell. The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the King."

GARDENING

(By a Local Gardener)

Annuals that can be sown in the open, where they are intended to bloom.

The latter part of April and the first in May weather conditions have been very favorable for the sowing of small seeds, the ground is warming up fine and there is good prospect of much more moisture than we have had at this season for some years past. The following is a list annuals, which, if sown out of doors under favorable conditions will prove very satisfactory.

MIGNONETTE, does best in a cool shaded position in rows or beds, thin out to 10 inches. It is chiefly grown for its sweet fragrance.

VIRGINIAN STOCK.—A low growing plant producing a great profusion of small pink and white flowers. Suitable for borders or masses, thin them to 6 inches apart. Likes a sunny exposure and a light warm soil.

CANDY TUFT of which there is many varieties, Iberis and Empress, which are the best producing large spikes of beautiful flowers, suitable for borders or masses. Any good garden soil well worked and enriched with rotted manure is suitable. Thin out plants to 8 inches apart.

DOUBLE ZINNIA—An annual of strong robust habit, the flowers are large, distinct bright colors, of fine form and continue to bloom until destroyed by frost. They grow from 12 to 24 inches in height and are quite effective in masses. Planted 10 inches apart.

AQUILEGIA, or Columbine—A very old favorite, which has been much improved of late years. It is of easy culture and a very free bloomer, height from 12 to 38 inches and makes a good background in a shady situation.

BARTONIA AUREA—A showy annual of easy culture with attractive foliage and a profusion of bright golden yellow flowers. It prefers a light soil and a sunny exposure, thin out plants to 6 inches apart.

CALLIOPSIS—An annual of graceful habit producing an abundance of flowers of many colors, very suitable for cutting for house decorations, of easy culture in almost any situation.

COMOS—An attractive plant with finely cut foliage and large blooms ranging from pink to white, borne on long slender stems, suitable for cutting.

CALIFORNIA POPPY—A very unusual annual of low habit of growth producing a great amount of orange, yellow and crimson flowers early in the season, and continues until cut down by frost. Suitable for borders or masses, these plants 8 inches apart.

PHLOX DRUMMONDI—A very showy and free blooming plant, flowers are of various bright colors, from white to deep red, suitable for borders or masses, has a long season. Thin out to 8 inches.

NASTURTIUMS. (Dwarf Varieties)—

Suitable for beds or borders, are of compact habit of growth and a great range of color. Plant seeds 10 inches apart in a light well drained soil with a sunny exposure.

ONIONS, Peas, Beans, Beet, Lettuce, Parsnips, Garden Turnips, Carrots, and Cabbages should be sown as the ground warms up after the rain.

and, at existing rates this was out of the question. He also showed that the people of the West were hit extremely hard by these rates, owing to the long haul they paid heavily both on the products they sold and on those they had to buy, which, for the most part, are brought in from outside.

The Progressive leader also demonstrated that the prosperity of Canada was dependent on the prosperity of agriculture, the country's basic industry; for the factorries of the east could not expect to be busy as long was so reduced through high transportation charges. For these and other reasons, the Crows Nest Pass agreement, through the suspension of which the present high rates were made possible, should be no longer continued.

Though the vote went against them in the House, the Progressives made a strong fight, and stood together. They were the only group in the House to squarely face the issue, and they will be heard from during the resulting discussion on this subject.

Through the persistency of the Progressives, the Deputy Minister of Justice has given an exposition on what parliament can do in the matter of creating a grain-marketing board. Summarized, his conclusions are that by legislation passed partly by the Dominion and partly by the provinces it is legally possible to control: (a) The acquisition of all wheat raised in any provinces passing such legislation; (b) The storing of the wheat so acquired in country elevators; (c) The storing or such wheat in terminal elevators, even though such elevators be situated in provinces other than those passing laws for the compulsory acquisition of wheat; (d) All export and import trade in wheat and wheat products.

(Truth), for his text. Rev. J. A. Smith gave a splendid address on some of the principles of Oddfellowship. A vocal duet (My Task) was ably sung by the Misses Ptolemy and Maddocks. The choir is to be complimented for the way they sang that beautiful Anthem "Take Up Their Cross", and last, but not least, Mr. Hayes was never in better voice than while singing his solo "My God, My Father, Thy Will be Done". After the service, Mr. E. A. Ripley, D.D.G.M. who was in charge, invited the visiting members to the Edgerton Block to partake of light refreshments. In the writers estimation, affairs of this class and character tend to cement the principles embodied in fraternalism, and inculcate in the minds of the rank and file, the precepts that fraternal societies teach.

19th Alberta Dragoons

The inclemency of the weather last Saturday did not preclude the "C" squadron from turning out to parade on Saturday evening. Instead of a parade Major Strachan decided to adjourn to the G. W. V. A. hall and have a lecture.

There will be a parade every Saturday evening until further notice.

Quite a number have already enrolled to attend training camp at Sarcee (Calgary) this summer, and it is hoped that Chauvin will turn out to camp at least sixty strong.

NOTICE

All members intending to attend Camp at Sarcee this year must hand in their names to Sgt. Saul not later than Saturday, May 29th.

Eddie Cahill, our agriculturalist made an interesting declaration the other day. He says that the horse is related to the cow and the cow to the horse. Wonder what the horse would say to this.

Elleen has joined the army of those who give advice on the destruction of grasshoppers. Her method follows: Catch the grasshopper, place on stone, hold hand over him to prevent his escape, reach for another stone and smash it all to pieces. Necessary implements - perseverance and quick action.

There is nothing wrong with this idea so long as the supply of stones and patience lasts on.

What's at? You see thumb prints on our books? How are we to prevent this when we have a soapless school. About one mill on the dollar added to our taxes would provide us with enough soap, we think. But's terrible.

"What would you do then?"

"Be a sport and give the old lady a kiss."

Lumber Back to Normal

LUMBER HAS REACHED A PRICE LEVEL where its value bears the true and proper proportion to the value of the products you farmers raise and sell. In other words, lumber prices to-day are consistent with prices on farm products.

THERE'S NOTHING MYSTERIOUS ABOUT IT. Just the old law of supply and demand and a willingness on our part to play fair with our customer friends by reducing our prices to a point where you can afford to buy.

RIGHT NOW YOUR PROBLEM may be a barn, a shed, or other building necessary to help you do your work better, more quickly, or more economically. Or it may mean a new home, or repairing and remodeling the old one.

BRIEFLY THE PROBLEM TO US. Let us show you the facts. We have many plans and suggestions, some of which you can probably use, and our friendly counsel and assistance won't oblige in any way.

Come in the first convenient day and let's talk it over.

Alberta 1921 Crop

Below 10 Yr Average

Returns of crop yields for 1921, have now been compiled by the agricultural department from reports given from 3114 threshing rigs in the province. While this includes about only three-fourths of the threshing rigs in the province, the averages obtained from these returns give a good general indication of the average yields over the whole province for 1921. The yield from the 3114 machines gives a total yield of all grains of 56,479,372 bushels. A comparison of the average yields of various grains for 1921 with the average yields for the 30 years previous is interesting.

AVERAGE	1921	10 yrs
Winter Wheat	20.98	20.55
Spring Wheat	.11.76	18.35
Oats	30.13	36.09
Barley	23.66	24.15
Rye	11.07	19.45
Flax	4.78	7.73

Coal Production

Increased production of coal during the month of February is shown by returns made. The production for February of this year was 160,188 tons more than in February of 1921. The total production of all coals was 615,584 tons compared with 455,486 tons for February of 1921.

"I personally am not the least bit offended at the sight of people digging during my sermon," said a London clergymen, the Rev H. R. L. Sheppard, recently.
